God's Grace

I sat stunned the other day when I read in Craig Barnes book Searching for Home this statement: "If there is any grace in being addicted to booze, drugs, gambling or sex, it is that these are not socially approved vices. So there are a variety of social structures that try to mitigate against addiction to these things, and lots of treatment centers to help these addicts turn from their self-destruction. But those who are addicted to the socially approved vices of power, money, and (wait for it)...self-improvement have a harder time realizing that the better they function with these addictions the more lost they become."

Great. Here I am about to write you an article about New Year's resolutions, which, as we all know, are about self-improvement and he has to say something like this. After all, who wouldn't like to be a different person in 2014? We would put things on our list like working at controlling our temper, being more generous, yelling at the kids less, being more loving to our spouse, or being more productive at work. Okay, I don't know how you really feel about that last one!

Barnes says of these socially acceptable addictions: "That's because society approves of these addictions and perceives them as the means of changing life and becoming different, which is one of our great national illusions. As with the disapproved alcoholics, as long as the approved addicts function well they will only grow more addicted to the things that are actually destroying them, and more sleepy to the reality of their predicament."

I went for a regular visit to the doctor some time ago and I said, "I have been feeling a bit dizzy in the morning and wonder if my blood pressure might be high?" She said "It may be but it would not make you dizzy. Basically with high blood pressure you will not know you have it until you have your stroke or heart attack.

Low blood pressure you notice, high blood pressure probably not, which is why you need to have it checked."

Society will tell us in a hurry by making laws to control drinking and driving and stiff penalties for DUI and drug arrests. Society will reward us for the socially acceptable addictions and we will only find out how destructive they are when they silently steal our lives away from us. While you were out working all those hours accumulating wealth, you missed your child's growing up. While you were busy celebrating that you had the power to control your own life, the stress of trying to stay in control was killing you.

No, the only place you are going to find out about the dangers of those socially acceptable addictions is in the scriptures and at church. In these places we discover that happiness in life is not about being in control but rather recognizing that God is in control. Here we will learn that power and money will not get us into the kingdom. Here we will learn that we do not need to work at being a different person but rather by the grace of God we can rediscover the person God created us to be in the first place.

So my advice to you for 2014 is that you take a long swim in the pool that is filled with the grace of God. That pool, by the way, may look a bit like a font.

John

STILL SINGING ALLELUIAS!

December 1st was the start of Advent at church. It was also the day I came back to work after a month of medical leave. In the Cabrera household, it was the day that all of the Christmas décor was carried upstairs, only to sit for another two weeks. Thanksgiving had come and gone without a traditional turkey dinner. Nineteen members of our extended family DID share a meal but it was at Jumbo Buffett (yes, they did have turkey!) and it just didn't feel like Thanksgiving. It was a holiday milestone on my journey to Advent that I missed.

Three of six December family birthdays passed us up prior to Christmas Day and they, too, didn't feel quite as festive. Was it that the kids were getting older or was it a general sense of being unprepared for those sorts of celebrations too? The holiday candle I had burning in the kitchen was a false reminder of how unprepared I was. Joseph and Mary were stuck in a box instead of traveling to the manger. Even though the lights were actually hung on the house that first Sunday, the fresh pine tree sat bare in the living room for a whole week, its scent toying with me, crying out for lights and those beautiful memories told each year when one by one the homemade ornaments were hung on every branch. I wasn't even ready to decorate or shop or break out my Christmas tunes. I immediately realized how much Christmas in my secular world was tied to my sacred life. Being absent for that whole month prior to Advent really threw me for a loop. I had missed the preparation before the preparation so I felt that I wasn't ready for Advent. I am not sure what I was supposed to feel but I guess I was expecting the POOF! Instantaneous Christmas Joy!

But then all of that changed. Maybe the amazing Trans Siberian Orchestra concert had something to do with it. Or maybe it was a middle school holiday band concert followed by finally trimming the tree at our home. Or perhaps it was in my freeing Joseph, Mary and the animals from the box and then placing them in the crèche we received as a wedding gift from my parents. But it could have been the Cabbage Patch sorting gifts and groceries event that contributed to the shift in my Advent heart. I soon figured it out. You see, I had been forcing myself into Advent instead of experiencing THE WAIT as it was meant to unfold before me. Waiting to join in the journey to the manger is very much a part of Advent. And our Advent hearts do change prior to, during and after the journey.

We all come to the manger in different ways and at different times. Some of us have those endearing family traditions that mark our journey's progress but some of us just need to wait patiently and realize that we don't have to join the caravan from the get go. Just like the shepherds and the angels and eventually the Magi, people join in the journey to the manger one after the other, creating much shorter trips for some, but we all arrive at the same place. And because I jumped on board two weeks after the trip began, my Christmas heart is still very much bursting with hope for this New Year that is upon us. Our lights and decorations are still up anticipating the arrival of the Magi in the manger. Perhaps we all move a bit too fast early in Advent. Waiting really means WAITING. And when we arrive after waiting for 4 weeks, 3 weeks, 2 weeks or even 1 week, waiting actually extends our time on the journey allowing us to hang on to Christmas a bit longer. Maybe even well into the New Year.

LATER

Later

after the angels,
after the stable,
after the Child,
they went back...
as we always must,
back to the world that doesn't understand our talk of angels and stars and especially not the Child.
We go back complaining that it doesn't last.
They went back to singing praises to God!
We do have to go back,
But we can still sing the alleluias!

Thank You!

Heartfelt Thanks

Dear Harvey Browne Members, Dare to Care would once again like to extend our gratitude for you continued generosity in support of our mission to end hunger in the local community.

In 2013 you provided in excess of 12,400 meals to families and individuals in need. On their behalf, we thank you! Sincerely,
Jill Auge

I would like to thank everyone for their prayers, meals and cards during my medical leave in November. It meant very much to me to know that I was missed. I feel blessed to serve such a caring congregation. I would also like to thank all of you for a joyous welcome back!

Kim Cabrera

Card of Thanks

The folk at St MAM want to thank all those at Harvey Browne who gave to the Thanksgiving Grocery Bag Drive for those in need. We received at least 32 bags plus the additional food that has been collected on Wednesday nights. The ministry will reach one hundred plus families within our community. The joint effort of churches in St Matthews has made this a reality.

I want to thank everyone who sent get well cards, called, came to the hospital and prayed for me during my recent illness.

It is wonderful to have a church family that gives so much support.

Thanks again.

Donna Jones

A Wonderful Gift

HBPres would like to extend a big thank you to Jim Combs for the donation of an AED defibrillator. The defibrillator was given in memory of his wife, Oma, and is located in Emory Hall. Thank you so much, Jim for the gift of this potentially life-saving equipment.

A Word About Our Excellent Stewardship Team

I want to thank our Stewardship team for the excellent job they did this year. Bill Harrod has done and continues to do great work as chair. The rest of the team have done a noteworthy job to make our stewardship plan work. The other members this year are Bruce Lindsey, Dee Pregliasco, Gary Luhr, Janie Scott, and Jeff Barrick. These people have given the time to come up with a stewardship plan and then write the letters and make the calls that have moved us toward our goal.

In addition, I give special thanks to Liz Harrod whose creative artwork on our mailings was so very well done. Liz is living in Indianapolis these days but we are glad to see her heart is still here at HBPres.

Of course, none of these over the top efforts work without the care and commitment of you, the members. Thanks to you we are very close and we pray that you will continue to strive so that we might reach our goal. Our success will allow us to continue to support all of the ministries that make a difference in our church, community and world.

In the meantime, we offer again our thanks to this hardworking team!

John

Staying Committed

Stewardship has been a hot topic at HB over the past month. One very important aspect of financial stewardship is the discipline of giving to the church on a regular basis and staying committed to our pledge. Unfortunately we saw a drop in pledge income over the past month, which means we weren't able to meet our financial obligation to the missions we support. If you did not pay your full 2013 pledge, please make every effort to catch up so that we can meet our commitments. If for some reason you can't give the full amount, please give what you can so those who depend on us won't be left short-handed.

From the Stewardship Committee

We are near the end of the 2014 Stewardship campaign. We still have approximately 50 pledges outstanding. Our goal of $925,000 is within reach. Many of you have prayerfully considered how HBPres has made a difference in your lives and worship experience. Many of you have increased your 2014 pledge to further make a difference in the lives of people inside and outside of the church.

If you have not yet made your pledge, please prayerfully consider increasing your pledge for 2014 and return it to the office as soon as possible. If you have already turned in your pledge, thank you!

We need all of the pledges in as soon as possible so the budget committee can begin its work of preparing the many ways HBPres will make a difference in 2014.

Thank you from the Stewardship Committee!

Phillipines Typhoon Recovery Continues

More than a month after Typhoon Haiyan devastated much of the central part of the Philippines, Presbyterian Disaster Assistance (PDA) continues to work with its partners to provide basic relief. An initial commitment of $50,000 from the One Great Hour of Sharing offering is helping to provide Filipinos with food, water, sanitation and shelter. In the future, PDA will work with partners to access to how best work toward long-term recovery.

The Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) has five mission co-workers and several Young Adult Volunteers based in the Philippines. Mission co-worker Rebecca Lawson is collaborating with the National Council of Churches in the Philippines sorting supplies being sent to one of the hardest hit areas. Mission co-workers Cobbie and Dessa Palm are helping United Church of Christ in the Philippines (UCCP) with ongoing assessment needs. YAV Duncan Kirk has been assigned to work directly with the UCCP Task Force Yolanda/Haiyan.

PDA is a member of ACT Alliance, an ecumenical agency that provides emergency, development and advocacy resources to those in need. PDA's partner, the National Council of Churches in the Philippines, is working with ACT to assemble thousands of relief packages. If you want to help the recovery efforts, you may do so by a check made payable to Harvey Browne Church and designating your gift to DR000012-Philippines. You can also text 'PDA' to 20222 to donate $10 for disaster response.

Preschool Patter

We had a very exciting December with our Christmas celebrations. Santa visited and the children were able to have their pictures made and wishes known. Our birthday parties for Jesus were a wonderful celebration of the birth of Baby Jesus as Adam Fischer told our children the Christmas story as part of the program where the children sang Christmas songs for our parents. The kindergarten children told the Christmas story of the birth of baby Jesus and sang songs about the birth. They were wonderful celebrations for the children and the parents.

We are currently registering children to attend Harvey Browne Preschool for the 2014-15 school year beginning in August. Church members get top priority in the registration process through January 17th. If you have children that are preschool age, registration information is being mailed on January 6th. If you have grandchildren who would like to enroll, they receive priority as well. If you need registration forms or have questions, please call Barbara Bailey or Anne Hughes in the preschool office at 895-2577.

Thank you again for all your support for your preschool program. Happy New Year and many blessings in 2014.

In Christ,

Coming Soon: Pyoca!

Back in the 80's when I was a child, there were some classic programs on TV. One of the highlights of the television week was Friday night when ABC would host TGIF and families would gather around to watch.

This year for Pyoca we will be exploring the story of the disciples and what it meant to follow Christ. We will pair this with a TV theme filled with examples from shows old and new. It will be a brilliant pairing of the world of television with the world of scripture. There will also be a lot of games, activities, and crafts inspired by the world of television.

Pyoca will be February 21-23. It is the winter retreat for the HBPres Youth and takes place at Camp Pyoca near Brownstown, Indiana. It is a wonderful retreat where we have lots of great discussions, scrumptious food, and fireside fellowship. Please mark your calendars now. Registration forms will be available January 19th and should be turned in by February 14th. Please contact me if you would like to volunteer to help with the retreat.

Support the HBPres Youth by Shopping

There are many ways to support the work of the church, though few are easier than doing something that you already do: shop for groceries. The HBPres Youth have partnered with Kroger in an on-going fundraiser. You can participate by picking up a Kroger Gift Card from Portia Britian. The youth group receives 4% back from every dollar added to these cards. Every time you shop, you can recharge the card with money, which can be used for groceries, gas, prescriptions, and all other goods sold by Kroger and its affiliates. Thank you for remembering to use your card each time you shop as this makes a huge difference for the youth group.

Tables of Eight

We will soon be reorganizing the Tables of Eight for spring 2014. Tables of Eight is a wonderful way to really get to know your fellow HBPres members. Those who have been at HBPres for years say that after a round of Table of Eight dinners, their dinner partners are friends rather than just someone to offer a passing “hello.”

Tables of Eight are made up of eight people, usually three couples and two singles. We have four dinners, pot luck style, with the host providing the meat dish. The time and date are set up by the first couple. At the first dinner the arrangements for subsequent dinners and their hosts are set. Remember, these are really informal and relaxed – nothing like “the boss is coming to dinner”.

We have been enjoying Tables of Eight for about 15 years. If you are already in a table you don't have to sign up again. There is no limit to the number of tables we have.

If you have participated, but not recently, sign up again in January or call me, Skip Light at 426-7461. If Tables of Eight is new to you or you have never been involved, sign up or call me. It is fun, very informal, and you will enjoy some really good food.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED...

Don't Blow the Diet in One Fell Swoop

You worked so hard the entire fall to look good for those holiday parties, why have to go back to the beginning with a whole new diet in January? Here are some suggestions to prevent those holiday tables from spoiling all that hard work.

- Eat small meals the day of the affair: high fiber breakfast; veggies & fruits for lunch; & a healthy, filling snack prior to the event.
- Check out the buffet for content and only eat those foods you like, taking small portions.( as usual, portion control is essential to controlled eating)
- Don't chat near the buffet table. It makes it too easy to graze.
- Remember, beverages have calories too. Control alcohol consumption or substitute wine or light beer. Five ounces of wine, Twelve ounces of light beer or 1.5 ounces of liquor in a non-calorie mixer all amount to 120 calories.

Now go on and have a happy, healthy and safe holiday season!

Basketball Team Sign-Ups

Sign ups are starting for anyone interested in playing youth, middle school or high school co-ed basketball on Saturday mornings at Beargrass Christian Church.

We will also be forming an adult men's basketball team that will play on Thursday and Friday nights. Games will start in January.

If you are interested in joining one of these teams, please contact Bill Bliven at 609-7001.

Bookanalia

Bookanalia will meet for the first time in the new year on January 15th at 6:30 in Room 209. The book selection for this meeting will be The Round House by Louise Erdrick, presented by Sarah Grant and Molly Pollock.

Winner of the 2012 National Book Award for fiction, this gripping mystery novel takes place in a close-knit modern Ojibwe reservation where 13-year-old Joe and his friends seek to discover who raped and almost killed his mother and exactly where it happened. Both are essential in obtaining justice as Joe's father, a tribal judge, finds that his hands are tied by the complex laws governing tribal lands.

HBPres Men's Groups

The Saturday Morning Men's Group will meet on January 18 at 9 a.m. at the church. We'll continue with our series on Being Christian in the 21st Century. Join us for breakfast goodies and lively discussion.

The Men's Bible Study Group will enjoy an evening of food and recreation in Emory Hall at the church on Thursday, January 23, at 6:30. This will be a great time to enjoy fellowship and good food. Make your plans to join us. Call Bill Williamson for more information.

From the Support Committee:

Attention!

The church building will be closed on January 6 and 7 for maintenance and possibly on the 8th if necessary. For safety reasons, no one will be allowed in the building on those days.
